Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Monday 03 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Turning wet and windy on Monday. Improving slowly on Tuesday.

Today:
A dry and bright start but cloud will soon thicken from the west during the morning as a spell of wet and windy weather approaches from the west. The rain, heavy at times, will spread eastwards during the afternoon. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:
Heavy rain and strong winds for most initially, with coastal gales. Rain clearing east around midnight, followed by lighter winds and a few clear spells. Cloudy with blustery showers later. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tuesday:
Unsettled and rather cloudy with showers or longer spells of rain gradually easing through the day. Winds remaining strong, with gales possible in Essex and Suffolk, before easing later. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Sunny spells and occasional showers through this period, but a spell of rain possible for the southernmost counties on Thursday. Remaining chilly, with rural night frosts possible.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.